The initial capital accounts of the respective Partners shall be equivalent to the percentages in such capital of the partnership as set forth in this paragraph hereinabove. In the event it is necessary for the Partners to contribute additional capital to the partnership for the partnership business, the Partners shall contribute the necessary capital in accordance with the percentages set out in this paragraph hereinabove. If capital is borrowed, all of the Partners, if required by the lending agency, will sign jointly, but the parties acknowledge that, as among themselves, their liabilities shall be in accordance with the percentages as set out in the paragraph hereinabove.

Each Partner agrees to endorse or otherwise guarantee, jointly and severally, if required, and to obtain the endorsement or guaranty, if required, of his spouse, to any lending agencies and their representatives for indebtedness of the partnership incurred in connection with the business of the partnership. It is understood, however, as above stated, that in the event the Partners sign such obligations so as to be jointly and severally liable, as among themselves, their liability shall be in accordance with the percentages set out hereinabove.

In the event any Partner shall fail to make the advances deemed necessary to be made by the majority ownership of the Partners to the general partnership, or in the event any such Partner shall fail to execute endorsements or guaranties heretofore mentioned, then the other Partners, at their election, may:

(a) Deduct from the amount of capital of the partnership owned by the defaulting Partner, or any drawing account or any other monies due to defaulting Partner, all or any portion of the amount of such required advance; and/or

(b) Treat the amount of such required advance from the defaulting Partner as a sum of money owed the partnership by the defaulting party, due immediately, together with interest at the maximum legal rate permissible, and may file suit to collect the same, in which case no offsets owed that defaulting Partner shall be permitted to reduce the amount of money otherwise owing to the partnership by the defaulting Partner; and/or

(c) Sell and assign enough of such defaulting Partner's interest, absolutely, to the partnership or the other Partners, or others, so as to supply the funds necessary to pay such required advance; such interest to be equal to the book value as determined in ARTICLE XV of this Agreement.

VI. A separate income account shall be maintained for each Partner. Partnership profits and losses shall be charged or credited to the separate income account of each Partner. If a Partner has no credit balance in his income account, losses shall be charged to his capital account.

From time to time the partnership may distribute to the Partners such sums as the Partners consider advisable. Any such distribution shall be made in proportion to the respective Partner's interests in the profits and losses of the partnership as of the time of distribution, except that if a Partner is indebted to the partnership, the amount of such indebtedness may be withheld from the amount which would otherwise be distributed.

Except as may otherwise be provided upon agreement by a majority in interest of the Partners, none of the Partners shall receive any interest on his contribution to the capital of the partnership and none of the Partners shall receive any salaries for services rendered on behalf of the partnership, provided that the Managing Partner may be paid such compensation as a majority of the Partners agree upon from time to time.

In connection with such liquidation, the surviving Partners shall have the sole discretion as to whether to sell any partnership asset, and if so, whether at public or private sale and for what amount and on what terms, or whether (if sale thereof is not required to enable payment of debts, expenses of liquidation, loans by Partners, and undrawn profits of the Partners) to distribute and transfer the same to and among the remaining Partners and the estate of any deceased Partner, in kind, by transferring interest therein in the respective percentages in which profits and losses are shared immediately prior to the event which results in such liquidation. In the event that the surviving Partners determine to sell any property, they shall not be required to sell the same promptly, but they shall have full right and discretion to determine the time when, and in the manner in which, such sale or sales shall be had, having due regard to general financial economic conditions.

however, that each party hereto by United States mail, registered or certified, may give written notice to change such address. Except where otherwise specified in this Agreement, any notice, statement, or other instrument shall be deemed to have been given, served and delivered on the date on which such notice was mailed as herein provided.
